

Sky Broadband Racers Eseries Rulebook - Online Tournament

The rulebook outlines the rules to be followed when participating in the online segment of the Sky Broadband Racers Eseries tournament. Failure to adhere to these rules may be penalised. We therefore strongly recommend that every participant reads the complete rule set before taking part in the competition. The decisions made by the tournament administration team are final and cannot be contested.

1. Player Rules

1.1 Player Gender

- All players must identify as a woman

1.2 Player Residency

- All players must be legal UK residents and/or citizens.
- 'Residency' defined: A player is considered a 'Resident' when on the date that the player registers for the tournament they are either a lawful permanent resident of the UK for at least six months

1.3 Player Age

- All entrants must be over the age of 18 at the start of the tournament.

1.4 No shows

- A player must be online and in the lobby within 5 minutes of the race starts time. Failure to be in the lobby 5 minutes before will result in a no show.
- No show will mean they have forfeited their race and will no longer take part in the rest of the tournament.

2. Verification

2.1 Proof of Residency and Age and gender

- Once registered on the tournament platform 'Sim Grid' to ensure residency and age rules are upheld, players must follow the guideline below.
- To prove residency and date of birth you may use any of the following:
Any official identity document - eg, Passport, Birth certificate, driving licence (including provisional)
Government issued documents - eg, government benefits record, military registration, etc
Private documentation - eg, school records, deeds, leases, homeowner association docs, utility bills.
- All online players must complete this form to verify their age and residency - [\[VERIFICATION FORM HERE\]](#)

- This information will not be stored and will be deleted as soon as the person has been verified.

3. Game Rules

3.1 EA ID Accounts

- Players must only use 1 account throughout the duration of tournament play. EA ID's must be in standard formats, any other format submitted will be deemed invalid.
- Players must connect their current and main EA ID account to SimGrid, this EA ID will be the only account they will be using throughout the tournament and failure to comply with this will result in immediate disqualification.
- Should for any reason, a player needs to change their EA ID, they must notify the tournament admins immediately, failure to comply with this will also result in immediate disqualification.

3.2 Registration

To sign up to the tournament all participants must register their information on Sim Grid.

This includes:

- Valid EA ID

4.5 Technical Pauses

- If a player encounters a problem that prohibits their ability to play the player must notify a tournament admin to pause the game and provide a reason before or immediately after the game is paused.
- The remaining player in the match will not be allowed to do anything in game during the technical pause.
- All players must remain silent whilst an admin tries to fix the issue.
- The admin will make a judgement call on if the lobby must be recreated or the game continues.

4.6 Disconnects

- Players are encouraged to play on a wired connection in order to avoid connectivity issues.
- The responsibility of the connection lies with the player
- In the event of a disconnect, the disconnected player forfeits that individual game but can continue the rest of the series if they connect again.
- If both players are in agreement, the lobby can be recreated and the entire match played out again.

5. Cheating and Bugs

- If you think a player is cheating or exploiting bugs a player can contact an admin via the Sim Grid who will pause the game and review.
- If an admin finds that there is cheating or bug exploitation involved, they may decide to issue a formal warning, match forfeit or disqualification depending on the severity of the specific circumstance.
- You cannot appeal decisions made by the admin, they are final.
